Enhanced iodine supplement now available.

Hoffman Estates, IL (PRWEB) January 29, 2015 – People could be deficient in this essential mineral and not even know it. Mercola.com has introduced an enhanced version of this vital nutrient with a new Iodine supplement.

Mercola's Iodine contains 1.5 mg of potassium iodide, the most stable form of iodine.

In addition, the supplement is delivered in a unique Licaps capsule with advanced technology that locks in freshness. This increases the shelf-life of the product and reduces the chance of leaking to virtually zero.

Some reasons people may have low iodine levels include soil depletion, limited sources of foods rich in iodine, and fluoridated drinking water. Also, vegetarians may be deficient in iodine due to their dietary restrictions.
